perfectly with the surrounding natural landscape. In addition, the proximity of the road will facilitate access to housing and offer convenience to residents.

If you consider the possibility of building an accommodation, the land also offers a great potential. You can build a small accommodation complex, such as a boutique hotel or holiday homes. The location close to the road and the Levada do Rei would be attractive to tourists wishing to explore the region, providing an excellent business opportunity.

Another option would be to build a catering establishment, such as a restaurant or café. With the proximity of the road, it can attract both tourists passing through the region and locals. The Levada do Rei will be an additional attraction for visitors, making the place even more interesting for a catering establishment.

In summary, this land offers several construction opportunities, such as private housing, accommodation or catering establishment. The strategic location and natural beauty of the region are strengths that can make any venture successful.
